

THRILLING STORIES OF THE COURT VIEW HOTEL DISASTER

Mrs. Huls, Mr. Porter Eubanks And Mr. Sam Powell Tell Of Their Experience Of Thursday Morning In Escaping From Burning Building.

The body of Mr. H. T. Eals, who lost his life in the fire that destroyed the Court View Hotel Thursday morning was taken to his home in Cynthia Thursday afternoon for burial. Mr. H. T. Eals was the son of Mr. Henry T. Eals, a prominent real estate broker of Cynthia.

Dynamite was used Thursday to throw down the walls that were left standing and nothing remains now of the once leading hotel of Winchester and Central Kentucky, but a melancholy pile of ruins.

All who were injured in making their escapes from the building were reported to be doing well Friday morning, and it is thought now that no more fatalities will result from the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Huls are at present located with Mr. and Mrs. George Hart. They have not definitely decided yet where they will locate in the future. The loss on Mr. Huls' furniture will be $2,000 with $1,000 insurance, instead of $500 insurance as was first stated.

Officer John Ballard was one of the first to discover the fire and was the one who turned in the alarm. Mr. Ballard also assisted in getting the women out of the burning building.

Jas. Donahue who jumped from the third story window of the burning hotel and who was thought to have sustained internal injuries, rested well last night and is reported as better today.

Mrs. Huls' Story.

The reporter for The News called on Mrs. Huls this morning to get a story of the fire and her experience in making her escape. Mrs. Huls said:

"I think I heard Porter Eubanks the first time he yelled fire. I jumped up and ran to the door and opened it. The smoke and flames struck me in the face and I was almost overcome. I closed the door and called to Mr. Huls to get up that the hotel was on fire.

My first and only thought was getting the children out of the building. I can't remember but very little of what took place, for I was so excited. I cannot realize it yet, it all seems like a dream to me. After we got the children woke up, Mr. Huls and I began getting them out. Mr. Huls held a blanket out of the window and let each of them slide down it and some of the men on the ground caught them.

I sat in the window and waited until the fire department arrived, and I then came down a ladder. I can't find words to express my appreciation of the kindness shown me and my family since the fire by our friends."

Mrs. Bundrum is confined to her bed at the jail and suffering from a nervous attack, and on account of that, could not be seen by the reporter.

Mr. Powell's Story.

The following is Mr. Powell's story:

I occupied room No. 50 on the third floor. The first I heard of the fire was Porter Eubanks running through the hall yelling fire at the top of his voice and smashing the doors in with his feet. I jumped up and ran to my door and looked out in the hall. The flames and the smoke struck me in the face and I was almost suffocated. I shut the door and came back. I then woke up Tom Rupard who was rooming with me. I grabbed a few of my clothes and went to the window and threw them out.

By that time, the room was full of smoke and the blaze was coming through the walls. Rupard called to me and said he was suffocating and couldn't find his way to the window. I went back and caught him by the hand and pulled him over to the window. I then jumped to the portico in front of the office and yelled to Rupard to jump. I climbed down the portico in front of the office and yelled to Rupard to jump. I climbed down from the portico and went into the police court room. I was the first one out of the building.

After I had gotten out, I looked around to see if any one else had gotten out and there was no one on the ground. I could see several women in their windows crying and screaming for help. I had no clothes on but my night clothes and I had sustained a very painful cut on my right foot when I jumped to the portico, and I was almost helpless and could do but very little towards rescuing any of the others.

I believe if the fire had been burning five minutes longer before it was discovered, every one in the building would have perished. I am at present staying with Mr. J. A. Boone.

Mr. Powell lost his watch and nearly all of his clothing. When seen at the County Clerk's office Friday morning, Mr. Powell was wearing one tan and one black shoe.

Porter Eubanks Story.

Porter Eubanks tells the following story:

"I was acting as night clerk at the hotel, for a few days during the illness of Mr. Bush, the regular clerk. I was sleeping on a cot just in the rear of the office. The first that I knew of the fire was when the glass door near where I was sleeping, burst in and the glass fell on me.

I jumped up as quick as I could and ran through the building yelling fire and breaking in all the doors that I could. There was only three doors that I could not get in. One of them was Mr. Eals' door, the man that was lost. The others I don't remember whose they were.

Spread So Rapidly.

I never saw a fire in all my life, that spread as rapidly as this one did. As soon as I got to the second floor, I looked around and the stairway that I had just ascended was a mass of flames, and I could at once see that I could not get back the way I came, nor could any of the others get out by going down the stairway.

My first thought was getting out the women. After I came down from the third floor, I went to the front of the building on the second floor, where I found Mrs. Bundrum and her daughter, Miss Jessie, and Miss Mary Huls. They were standing by the window screaming for help.

Smashed in Window.

I did not take time to raise the window but just smashed it in with my hand. I then took each one of them by the hand and lowered them down to the portico holding myself with one hand in the window.

There was a man who came to the window about this time and started to jump. I caught him and lowered him down like I did the women. When he hit the portico he fell and rolled off. I don't know who he was. I don't think Eals ever awoke at any time during the fire.

I know he was an awful sound sleeper and his father told me when he was here Thursday that he was always hard to awaken. I tried my best to knock his door in or to get an answer from him, but I could do no good. I am confident that the poor fellow never awoke during the fire. It is a miracle to me how any one escaped."

Mr. Edwards sustained a very painful, though not serious cut on his hand, when he broke the glass to get the women out.

MME. STEINHEIL, HELD IN CELEBRATED PARIS MURDER.

Mme. Steinheil, who is held in Paris as accessory to the strangling of her husband, was compelled to undergo great mental torture recently when the crime as she had related it was rehearsed in the exact spot where it had occurred and with living actors. The woman had accused two men of killing her husband, and these were brought into the room masked and required to go through the strangling episode. The woman stood the scene stoically.

CHARLES E. BOOE GETS FIVE YEARS IN PRISON ON ONE CHARGE

Defaulting Claim Clerk Pleads Guilty—Agreement Made That He Is To Receive Total Sentence Of 50 Years On The Thirty-Five Offenses.

Special to The News.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 8.—The jury in the Franklin Circuit Court this morning gave Judge Charles E. Booe, defaulting Claim Clerk in the Auditor's office, five years in the penitentiary upon the trial of the first indictment of the 35 pending against him for his embezzlement of State funds.

The indictment tried, was one on the charge of forgery. Other indictments will be taken up until an agreed term of fifty years for all offenses has been reached.

Booe began serving his time in the penitentiary this afternoon. Booe entered a plea of guilty and threw himself on the mercy of the court.

BEACH HARGIS TURNS OVER NEW LEAF AND GOES TO CHURCH

Young Patricide Tries To Make Good The Promise To Mother And His Uncle, Floyd Day, When He Was Released From Jail.

Special to The News.

JACKSON, Ky., Jan. 8.—Beach Hargis, patricide, evidently purposes to make good his promises to his mother and his uncle, Floyd Day, that he would conduct himself well if they would secure his release from jail. Since he has refrained from indulging in any wild escapades and seems trying to redeem himself.

Last night he attended church service of the Baptist church, where revival meetings are being held. He created considerable interest and seemed to excite the attention of the congregation more than the minister. His dark brown face and tall handsome figure was the cynosure of all eyes at the meeting.

NIGHT RIDERS FOUND GUILTY

Six Will Pay Penalty With Their Lives—Two Get Twenty Years.

Union City, Tenn., Jan. 8.—With a verdict of guilty in varying degree, the jury in the night rider trials reported. The twelve men found Garrett Johnson, Tid Burton, Roy Ranson, Fred Pincon, Arthur Cloar and Sam Applegate guilty of murder in the first degree with mitigating circumstances, and Br. Morris and Bob Huffman, the other defendants, guilty of murder in the second degree, and fixed their punishment at 20 years in the penitentiary.

The punishment of the six first named defendants was left to the court, and may be death or life imprisonment. The defense filed a motion for a new trial, which was set for hearing tomorrow, and which will be overruled, as indicated by the court, when sentence will be pronounced. The court will sentence the six first named defendants to death.

The defendants took the verdict with calmness, as they had been expecting it since the closing of the arguments. Attorney Pierce turned to them when it was announced and said, "We will tear this case to pieces in the supreme court."

Bob Huffman, one of the men to escape with 20 years, is the man who, according to the confession of Frank Fehring, fired the shot which killed Captain Ranken.

When the jury's readiness to report was announced the military quickly surrounded the courthouse and a detail of soldiers with revolver holsters open was deployed around the walls of the courtroom, but aside from a whispered buzz of conversation there was no demonstration. The prisoners were quickly handcuffed and under military escort taken to prison. The verdict is considered a compromise one, and no trouble is feared by the authorities.

The work of the jury was delayed by the sickness of Juror Rosson, a recess of several hours being taken to permit him to rally from a sinking spell. When the report was made he was carried into the courtroom on a cot.

EXPERTS HAVE INNING

Dr. Manson Declares Captain Hains Insane When He Killed Annis.

Flushing, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Dr. L. Samuel Manson, an alienist, continued his expert testimony at today's session of the Hains murder trial, the attorneys for the state conducting a severe cross-examination.

After listening to the hypothetical question, the reading of which consumed one hour and fifteen minutes, Dr. Manson declared that on Aug. 15, when Captain Hains shot William E. Annis, he was suffering from "impulsive insanity," but that Captain Hains was sane the last time he saw him.

B. zard Loses Force.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The cold wave which holds the entire country in its grasp and which was accompanied by low temperature and snows generally in all sections, already has lost some of its force in a movement to the east, accompanied by strong northeasterly winds. The weather bureau stated that the cold wave centered in eastern Ontario. Low temperatures which have been recorded in the interior will not change materially.

Object to Larger Navy.

Boston, Jan. 8.—A remonstrance against further increase of the United States navy was sent to congress by the board of directors of the American Peace society.

Castro Improves.

THE MEAT OF IT.

Chief of Police Williams of Wellsville, O., recently acquitted on an arson charge, has been arrested for the alleged poisoning of dogs.

Four boys, ranging in ages from 8 to 16 years, burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home of Crist Lee at Rice Lake, Wis.

The Security State bank of Brainerd, Minn., has closed its doors pending an investigation by the bank examiner.

Mrs. Ira McCready, wife of a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, escaped from a private sanitarium and drowned herself in Lake Michigan.

Sparks from a stove set fire to a cot in the home of J. E. Hannah, Eaton, O., and a three-weeks-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. George Hardy of Dayton, O., burned to death.

RICH SPINSTER HAS VANISHED

Sister Says She Was Hurled Into Sea—Has Bad Picturesque Career.

London, Jan. 8.—The mysterious disappearance and the remarkable career of Miss Violet Gordon Charlesworth are furnishing the English public with a sensation equal to that of the Steinhil case in Paris. Miss Charlesworth, an attractive spinster of 25, lived with her parents in Boderia, St. Asaph, Wales, has been reported as killed while motoring in the direction of Penmaenmawr, with her sister and a chauffeur. The sister and the chauffeur aver that the motor came into collision with the retaining wall of a road along the edge of a cliff overlooking the sea, and that Miss Charlesworth was thrown over the wall into the sea.

The sister and the chauffeur gave the foregoing account to the local authorities, and since the members of the family have declined to see inquirers or to give further details. Those who have examined the scene of the supposed tragedy do not consider it possible that the body could have been washed away. A woman's hat was found upon the rocks, but there was no indication of a body having been thrown over the cliff.

Miss Charlesworth's picturesque career suggests that of Mme. Humbert. She said that she was heiress of a General Gordon, her godfather, who left her $744,000, which was to be paid over to her on her twenty-fifth birthday, Jan. 3, with accumulated interest, making the whole amount $2,500,000. Miss Charlesworth usually gave her name as Gordon, and visited London frequently alone. She operated heavily upon the London Stock Exchange and, according to the Evening News, owes one broker $50,000.

The story of her death is generally disbelieved, although her parents have offered $100 for the recovery of the body. The disappearance and the family's secrecy are causing endless speculation.

Court Punishes Vanderbilt.

Paris, Jan. 8.—The civil court of the Seine ordered Harold S. Vanderbilt to pay $100 to a peasant who was struck recently by Mr. Vanderbilt's automobile, near Nice.

WOMEN GO FREE

Jury Deliberates Eighteen Hours Over Testimony in Erb Case.

Media, Pa., Jan. 8.—Mrs. M. Florence Erb, wife of Captain J. Clayton Erb, who was well known in political circles all over Pennsylvania, and her sister, Mrs. Catherine Beisel, who were charged with the sensational murder of Captain Erb on the night of Oct. 6, 1908, walked from the Delaware county courthouse free women. After the jury had been out nearly 18 hours it brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of each woman, both of whom had been charged separately and jointly with shooting the captain. Thus ended a trial that has held the interest of the people for more than a week, at which much scandalous evidence was brought out, some of which did not reach the reading public.

MURPHY AND MADDEN

Clever Lightweights to Meet in New York Tonight.

New York, Jan. 8.—Two of the best lightweights of America will get together tonight in the ring of the National Athletic club in this city. Tommy Murphy, "the Pride of Harlem," is to face Frankie Madden, "the Bowery Boy," in a ten round bout.

Murphy's defeat of Charley Griffin, the Australian boxer, in Boston last week has sent his stock up a point or two. Madden has been making strenuous preparations for the scrap. He has championship ideas and will go after some of the best men in the country if he gets the decision over Murphy.

Ministers Sit on Lid.

Eaton, O., Jan. 8.—In certain counties that have voted dry under the Rose county option law the issuing of prescriptions by physicians has proved to be a business much in demand. This will not be the case in Preble county, however, for the Preble County Medical society decided by resolution to put the "lid" on this practice. To secure a prescription for whisky the applicant must be confined in bed.

Crushed by Piece of Steel.

Canton, O., Jan. 8.—William Conroy, 19, was killed under a huge piece of hot steel at the plant of the United States steel company. Conroy, endeavoring to keep warm, went to sleep beside the steel, which dropped and crushed him.

WOMEN GARDENERS.

Unique Institution Started Abroad by American Women.

Two American women are conducting what is described as "a village Utopia" in England. One of them, Mrs. Victoria Woodhull Martin, has enjoyed intermittent celebrity for a good many years. The other is Mrs. Martin's daughter, Miss Zula Mand Woodhull.

The village is near Norton Park, the estate which Mrs. Martin inherited from her second husband several years ago. It is called Bredon's Norton and until recently was a "tumble-down, decaying agricultural village managed in the old, inefficient style and quite cut off from the outer world."

The two Americans improved the village, had a fight with the education authorities, which resulted in a complete reorganization of the school, and finally restored the old manor house and opened it as a woman's agricultural club.

A pamphlet describing the club and its objects gives this outline of the conditions of membership:

"Members staying at the club will be able to take lessons in gardening, dairy or poultry work or bee keeping for long or short periods."

"Members who have trained at any of the existing colleges can live at the club and rent small plots, from half an acre upward, which will enable them to make a start in market gardening with very little outlay."

"A horticultural school is carried on in connection with the club. The younger students, under the necessary supervision, will live in separate houses."

"Members may attend the higher courses at Cheltenham Ladies' college."

"Members who live in the village or immediate neighborhood may obtain all meals at the club at a very moderate price. This is an important item, as gentlewomen are often deterred from settling in the country on account of the great difficulty of getting any one to do the necessary cooking and housework. By being able to obtain their meals they are more or less independent of the servant question and manage very well with occasional help."

The various fees charged the club members are all moderate, says Town and Country, and the cost of living and learning depends in every case upon the member's earning capacity. To the girl of small means, say $200 a year, the club aims to open the door to a life full of interest, pleasant work, health and ample recreation.

The house is a beautiful stone Elizabethan manor house, with the date 1585 over its stone gateway. The country is charming, and the young women members of the club, which already is self supporting, have for their use a motor launch on the Avon and other facilities for bathing and boating. They have a good library in the mansion and a spacious music room where they give concerts and other entertainments.

Counting Postal Cards.
Of the many interesting machines employed by the government in its daily work there may be mentioned those used for counting and tying postal cards into small bundles. These machines are capable of counting 500-600 cards in ten hours and wrapping and tying them in packages of twenty-five each. In this operation the paper is pulled off a drum by two long fingers which emerge from below, and another finger dips in a vat of mucilage and applies itself to the wrapping paper in precisely the right spot. Other parts of the machine twine the paper round the pack of cards, and then a thumb presses over the spot whereon the mucilage has been applied, whereupon the package is thrown on a carrying belt ready for delivery.—Minneapolis Journal.

RAILROAD STORIES.

The Man Who Paid the Conductor the Name on the Ticket.

An old time traveling man was talking of experiences of former days on the road. "Frequently," said this traveler, "I journeyed to Cincinnati. The fare from my city to that place was then about $3.25. I saved something by handing the conductor $2 in cash. One day there was an excursion, and I bought a round trip ticket for $1.25 or $1.50—I've forgotten the exact amount, but that circumstance need not cripple this story. When I handed this ticket to the conductor as he tore off the return coupon he looked at me and in a voice betraying how deeply he was hurt he remarked, 'My young friend, don't you know that I can afford to haul you much cheaper than this company can?'"

"On another occasion, when in Chicago, a colored man met me at the entrance of the station, asked me where I was going and offered to sell me a ticket for $1. The ticket was to Louisville, but I was only going to Indianapolis. Cheap enough."

"When the conductor came along to take up my ticket he asked me my name. It was usual to write one's name on the ticket in the presence of the conductor. I told him my name was on the ticket. He grinned as he handed it back and asked me to look at it and say if that was my name. I looked. The name on the ticket was 'Mary Flaherty.' He grinned again, somewhat sarcastically, but he took the ticket."—Pittsburg Press.

SNORING.

One of the Evils We Acquire With Our Civilization.

It is a truism that no one ever heard of a snoring savage. In fact, if the wild man of the woods and plains does not sleep quietly he runs the risk of being discovered by his enemy, and the scalp of the snorer would soon adorn the belt of his crafty and more quietly sleeping adversary. With civilization, however, we have changed all this. The impure air of our sleeping rooms induces all manner of catarrhal affections. The nasal passages are the first to become affected. Instead of warming the inspired air on its way to the lungs and removing from it the dangerous impurities with which it is loaded the nose becomes obstructed. A part of the air enters and escapes by the mouth. The veil of the palate vibrates between the two currents—that through the mouth and the one still passing through the partially closed nostrils—like a torn sail in the wind. The snore, then, means that the sleeper's mouth is partially open, that his nose is partially closed and that his lungs are in danger from the air not being properly warmed and purified. From the continued operation of these causes—the increase of impure air in sleeping rooms and permitting habitual snorers to escape killing and scalping—some scientists have predicted that in the future all men (and all women, too) will snore. It goes along with decay of the teeth and baldness.—Health.

A Short Verse.

An Englishman named Thomas Thorp died, leaving his fortune to a poor relative on condition that a headstone, with the name of the said Thomas Thorp and a verse of poetry, be erected over the grave. Costing so much a word to chisel letters on the stone, the poor relative ordered that the poetry should be brief. Upon his refusal to approve, on account of their length, the lines

The Gingerbread Tree.

There is a species of palm, growing to a height of from twenty-five to thirty feet, in Egypt, Arabia, Abyssinia and Nubia which produces its fruit in long clusters, each containing from 100 to 200. These fruits are of an irregular form, of a rich yellowish-brown color and are beautifully polished. In upper Egypt they form part of the food of the poorer classes of inhabitants, the part eaten being the fibrous, mealy husk, which tastes almost exactly like gingerbread, whence the popular name of gingerbread tree in Egypt. Hyphoea thebaica is the botanical name of this palm.

How It Struck Him.

It was 5 o'clock in the afternoon, in a crowded Brooklyn trolley car, and above the noise arose the wails of a leather lunged baby protesting against everything. After two miles of this din the mother left with her child when a young man in the front end of the car thus expressed his sentiments:

Gee whiz! I'm glad I'm free!
No wedding bells for me.
The result can be more easily imagined than described.—New York Post.

PRESENT CONDITION OF FOREST RESOURCES

Few People Have Any Idea of Amount of Wealth Left in This Country.

Few people have anything like a clear idea of the amount of forest wealth left in this country. Those who think at all about this natural resource which has assisted in material development since the landing of the first settlers are unusually too much influenced by the condition of that particular State or section in which they are most familiar.

Many Different Ideas.

If they live in a much deforested or a treeless region, the people usually imagine that the country's timber supply is even more limited than is actually the fact; on the other hand, with those located in a section where a pinch of timber has not been experienced, the feeling is likely to be altogether the other way, and some become so indifferent at times as to think that there is really not much reason to worry about a timber problem. Both can profit by a reading of the actual facts.

Forests Cover One-Fourth.

The forests of the United States now cover about 550 million acres, or about one-fourth of the land of the whole country. The original forests covered not less than 850 million acres, or nearly one-half.

The forests owned by the government cover one-fourth of the total area, and contain one-fifth of all timber standing. Forests privately owned cover three-fourths of the area, and contain four-fifths of the standing timber. Besides having three times the area and four times the forests, the timberland privately owned is generally more valuable.

Conservative Lumbering.

Forestry, or conservative lumbering, is practiced on 70 per cent of the of the forests publicly owned and on less than one per cent of the forests privately owned. This covers the country's forest resources as they stand today. Senator Smoot, chairman of the section of forests of the National Conservation Commission, in outlining the future has said:

"By reasonable thrift, we can produce a constant timber supply beyond our present need, and with it conserve the usefulness of our streams for irrigation; water supply, navigation, and power.

Right Management.

"Under right management, our forests will yield over four times as much as now. We can reduce waste in the woods and in the mill at least one-third, with present as well as future profit. We can perpetuate the naval stores industry. Preservative treatment will reduce by one-fifth the quantity of timber used in the water or in the ground. We can practically stop forest fires at a total yearly cost of one-fifth the value of the standing timber burned each year, not counting young growth.

"We shall suffer for timber to meet our needs, until our forests have had time to grow again. But if we act vigorously and at once, we shall escape permanent timber scarcity."

OPERA HOUSE

With Robert Garnella, May Shirk, Elsie-Edna Garnella, Frank Forrest, Jack Stockton, Walter Edson and a first-class company, music lovers are sure of a treat on next Monday evening when "A Merry New York Maid" will appear at the opera house on Monday, January 12. There is laughter all through and with the music it makes the evening's enjoyment complete. The production has been made very carefully and the piece bears the evidence of the work that has been spent on it. The story is unlike many of the later comedies, inasmuch as there is a fine plot to the piece, and the laughs are caused more by the situations than by the actor. The musical numbers that the piece abounds in are all of the very latest of the successes and are well produced. The company is a great singing organization and the entire production is staged by Mr. Max Oberndorfer of the Metropolitan Theatre, New York, making the piece as nearly perfect as possible.

Work with a Will.

We are not sent into this world to do anything into which we cannot put our hearts. We have certain work to do for our bread and that is to be done strenuously; other work to do for our delight and that is to be done heartily; neither is to be done by halves or shifts, but with a will; and what is not worth this effort is not to be done at all.—John Ruskin.

Vanity.

HOW MISTAKES COST.

Edgar L. Vincent Takes a Chapter from His Own Experience.

Some years ago when coming on the farm I bought a cow of a neighbor. He told me she was as good as she looked, and to my eyes she looked first-rate; and in some ways she was all right. She gave good milk and a good lot of it. She was healthy and hearty. She was pleasing to look at and the children loved her; still, she had a bad habit of kicking.

Now, I do not say that the man who sold me that cow knew she had this failing; perhaps he did not. I am convinced that some cows are very sensitive to the touch of the hands of some men. From that cow we raised a number of calves. They were always good ones, large, with dreamy, big eyes and perfect beauties in many ways. But it may surprise you to know that every cow of that breeding had the same failing of kicking. And they would kick hard, too.

After that we had a little experience with a bull calf, that came from a neighbor, also, who had thoroughbred cows. We did the very best we could by it, so that it came to maturity in good condition. But it never brought us a single good calf.

It is a serious mistake to buy cows that are not healthy. In these days when so much is being said about tuberculosis, one needs to be exceedingly careful lest he bring into his herd a cow which is suffering from this terrible scourge and which may inoculate his whole dairy. We cannot do better than to insist upon a good bill of health for every cow we purchase, particularly if she be a full-blooded cow.

Often costly mistakes are made in the matter of building our barns. Did you ever hear a man say, "A fellow must build two or three barns to know what he really needs and ought to have?" That is so common an expression that I venture to say you cannot find a man that has ever built a barn who has not used it.

We of to-day have an advantage in this respect which our forefathers did not. Some splendid barns are now to be found in almost every part of the country. We may visit these and get pointers for our own use. So, too, there are some fine books devoted just to barn plans. These are well worth buying for the assistance they may be to the prospective builder.

WINTER CARE OF THE MILKER.

Protect Cows from Cold, But Give Them Chance for Exercise.

Proper protection is most essential during the cold, wet months of early spring than at any other time of the year. Good care at this time brings results at the pail. Allow the cows to run out only on bright days. I do not allow them to fill themselves with very cold water, as it is liable to affect their entire system. Give water several times a day and have it slightly warm.

The feed problem at this time is the most serious for the year, says Farm and Home. The high price of grains makes it costly to feed a cow in this vicinity and to be profitable a cow must produce about 16 ounces of butter daily which sells for 35 cents per pound. While each feeder must study his local supply of feed and regulate matters to conditions before him, there are certain feeds that will always be favorites.

Supply sufficient bulk to satisfy the appetite and at the same time furnish material for growth and milk production. If there is a surplus of feed she will have a tendency to lay on flesh which is not wanted. If feed is insufficient the cow will shrink in milk supply.

I feed very regularly, first giving grain, milking while they eat this. After the milk is removed I feed the roughage and the dust does not get into the milk. The large cow and the small, nervous cow both require more feed than one that is quiet. These thoughts may appear to most readers to be trite and commonplace, but they are just the things that are neglected by most dairymen.

DON'T STUNT THE CALVES.

Keep Their Feed Up If You Would Make a Profit.

If last year's calves are to be kept on the farm during the present winter there is no economy in keeping them through on short rations. No matter what the price of feed is, if they are good enough to keep they should have plenty to eat, and if they are not good enough to keep they had better be marketed now at almost any price. If the calf is stunted during its first winter it will not be worth more in the spring than at this time. Profit in growing young calves of any kind depends largely upon keeping their growth constant. One of the most worthless objects upon any farm in the spring is a calf that has been brought through the winter on a ration of straw and cold weather and that has been allowed to become lousy as well as stunted. The grain fed to the calves this winter may seem costly and not productive of any results, but when these same calves are put upon the pasture next summer it will be very easy to tell which of them received grain and which did not. As has been repeated in these columns many times there is no economy in poor feeding, and this is doubly true when applied to young stock.

Cut all dead wood from fruit trees so the insect pests will have no hiding place.

OLDEST DEPOT IN THE WORLD IN LEXINGTON

Old L. & N. Station There, Has That Unique Distinction.

The oldest structure in the world today built for a railway passenger station stands at the corner of Mill and Water streets in Lexington.

This statement is made in a carefully prepared article written for the Mechanical and Electrical Engineering record of the Kentucky State University by Prof. V. E. Muncy, for many years connected with the latter institution.

Professor Muncy refers to the old Louisville & Nashville depot. As it appears now there is little difference from what it looked like when first built. A plain, square-shaped building, three stories high and built of brick, it is familiar to every man, woman and child in the city of Lexington. It was only abandoned a few months ago by the L. & N. upon the completion of the new Union Station between Limestone and Walnut.

Began in 1833.

"The writer learned from the late Captain Jesse Woodruff that it was begun in 1833 and completed in 1835," continues Professor Muncy's article. When completed it marked the eastern terminus of the Lexington & Ohio railroad and contained the offices of the company.

"From the northwest corner of this building the first passenger railway car west of the Alleghenies started on its daily run to Frankfort. It has been used for almost three-quarters of a century and stands as a landmark to remind the present generation of the old order of things in Lexington and Central Kentucky.

Charter in 1830.

"Those who prepared the charter granted January 28, 1830, to the Lexington & Ohio Railroad Company contemplated a road from Lexington to Louisville. The early advertisements to contractors invited bids on the construction of eight miles of road from Louisville eastward, and six miles from Lexington westward; but the citizens of Louisville were not then ready to apply themselves seriously to the construction of the railway. They had a commercial outlet through the Ohio River.

Started To Build Road.

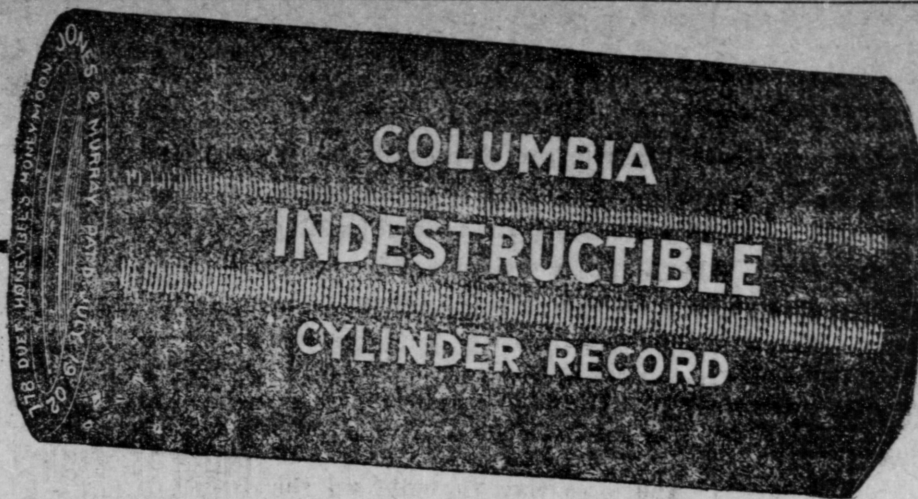

"Mr. Winter and his co-workers, most of whom were residents of Lexington, then set themselves assiduously to the task of building the road from Lexington to Frankfort. Several engineers were employed. The first was Thomas J. Matthews, of Transylvania University, who began a preliminary survey of the proposed route during the latter part of March, 1830. Soon after this the president employed Samuel H. Kneass, Mr. Mellvain and others to put to work in a state of forwardness. The directory requested the president to go eastward in search of a man for chief engineer's place. H. J. Ranney, who had been in the service of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, applied for the place. President Winter offered him a salary of $1,200 per annum. This he declined, but agreed to work without compensation a few months until the board could judge of his competency. After a trial of three months, he was made chief engineer of the road, August 16, 1832.

"The Board of Directors had some difficulty in obtaining the right of way through a number of farms. In two cases—the Ducker farm and the Francesco farm—President Winter reported that an amicable adjustment could be brought about only by the purchase of the farms outright.

"The subscriptions for capital stock were called for by the directory in installments of from one per cent to ten per cent. These payments were made in some instances very slowly. The treasurer was frequently embarrassed for funds. The directors were compelled to meet outstanding obligations from their own resources.

"The friends of the road finally obtained an act of the Legislature of Kentucky enabling them to pledge all of the property of the Lexington & Ohio Railroad Company to the State and to issue bonds to the credit of the State. These bonds were sold at a premium for money to continue the work on the road. They were afterward cancelled by the company and the State lost nothing thereby.

"The grade from Lexington to the top of the hill northeast of Frankfort was fairly easy, though gotten at the expense of many short curves. From the top of this hill to Frankfort and the river an inclined plane was used. "After the road bed was graded two parallel lines of stone 'sills' were placed upon the grade. Into the sills holes were drilled larger at the bottom than at the top so that when molten lead was poured in and cooled it was held securely. The rails were of wrought iron."

DOOM OF BIG HAT.

Chicago Milliners Plan to Put an End to Enormous Headgear Now Worn By Women.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—A feminine hat with the dangerous reach, the head piece with the spear-like feather and the creation which obscures the scenery, will soon be no more. Chicago milliners have banded as the Milliners' Association with a resolve to wipe out the giant hat evil.

"By means of our organization we will put an end to cut-throat tactics among milliners," said Mme. Marie, president of the association. "By this means and by turning out more artistic hats, we will be able to uphold Chicago's reputation as the millinery center of the country."

Natural Kindness.

At an out of the way railroad junction a traveler found himself hungry, but with only two minutes to spare before his train left. "I'll take a cup of coffee," he said to the young woman in charge of the restaurant. "I've no time for anything else."

"You can take all the time you want, sir," said the young woman cordially. "You look at this bill of fare, and I'll telephone to the superintendent to delay the train a little while."

"Why, can that be done?" asked the traveler in amazement. "Certainly," said the young woman. "Of course it can. It's a branch road and no other train coming or going over it today, and the superintendent would want you to have a good meal. He owns this restaurant."—Youth's Companion.

You Cannot Answer These Questions!

1—Why do you continue bathing your knees and elbows one at a time, when you can stretch out in a full bath tempered to suit you, and can do so every morning if you wish?

2—Why pump and carry water for your kitchen and laundry work when you can have it at hand for the turning of a faucet?

3—Why take chances on drinking germ-filled cistern water when you can get it from a large reservoir filtered through the best filter plant South of the Ohio River?

4—Why have a dry, dismal-looking yard when you can have it filled with green grass and blooming flowers, and can at the same time get rid of the dust in the street?

5—Why suffer other inconveniences when you can have everything for the comfort and health of your family right in the house?

6—Is it not true that the answer is not "lack of money," but lack of economy and enterprise and indifference to getting the most out of life?

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The dreadful calamity of Thursday morning, when one human life was sacrificed and over $20,000 worth of property destroyed, emphasizes strongly the position of The News that the Fire Department should be strengthened. We do not believe that any Fire Department could have saved the Court View hotel after the fire got fairly started. But we cannot tell when another such calamity may overtake Winchester.

If two fires had broken out Thursday morning, it would have been impossible to control them. One only could have been taken care of.

The Fire Department has under consideration the purchase of a new hose wagon. Let the matter be pushed at once. Now is the time to get the Council to act.
With the Court View catastrophe in our minds it will be far easier to secure action than if the matter is allowed to drag indefinitely.

The Fire Committee has been investigating various kinds of wagons and ought to be in a position to know the best. They should close up the matter immediately, and not wait for further disastrous fires.

OPEN UP COURT STREET.

The letter of Judge Beckner in yesterday's News suggesting that now is the time to open South Court street to Maple and to move the county jail from its present position is worthy of serious consideration.
The location of the Federal building has added to the value of the property around the courthouse. The new Perry building has shown the possibilities of business going there.
Main street is crowded and there must be an outlet somewhere.

The best way to build up the square is to make a thoroughfare clear through to Maple, and now is the time to act, when there is no obstruction to the street.

HOW TO ADVERTISE.

Here is what a successful advertising writer has to say about how to do it:

"Tell it all in the first paragraph!
For several months I had been reporting for the liveliest daily of the city, and imagined I had made good —when the city editor called me into his room one afternoon.

"Say," said he in the informal manner that always stopped a cub reporter breathing for a few moments, "your work is all right after a reader gets into it, but kindly remember this is no quarterly we are running. Put all the facts of your article into the first paragraph then the reader doesn't have to wade through a lot of stuff to find out what the item is. Let your first paragraph tell the story; if we are crowded and have to throw out what follows it, there's no loss."

At the time it struck me as somewhat cruel; but it was the truth—and as a writer of advertising, I often recall that bit of instruction.

Place the concentrated essence of your work at the very beginning, so your customer prospect knows what he is going to get, in elaborated form later on.

Then, if he's interrupted or loses the page, the advertising seed has been sown, just the same.

Tell it all in the first paragraph;
he may not read the second."

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—With the

the day when all the state officers-

Michigan Murder Mystery Grows Deeper.

BONES NOT IDENTIFIED

Authorities Are Looking in Canada
For Man Answering Description of Rev. J. H. Carmichael Who Crossed St. Clair River—Carpenter Who Has Been Missing For Several Days
Thought to Be Victim of Brutal Butchery in Country Church.

St. Clair, Mich., Jan. 8.—Rev. J. H.
Carmichael, the Methodist minister of Adair, Mich., who was thought to be the victim and whose dismembered and burned body was found in the stove of his church near Columbus,
Mich., is now thought to be alive.

The authorities of St. Clair county, looking upon the minister as a fugitive instead of a murder's victim, have sent descriptions of him to the police of a number of Canadian cities in the hope that a stranger who crossed the St. Clair river from St.
Clair, Mich., to Courtwright, Ont., may prove to be the missing clergyman, and may be located and returned to Michigan to clear up the Rattle Run church mystery.

Indications point to Gideon Browning of Adair, a carpenter, who has been missing for several days, as the victim who lost his life in the desperate hand-to-hand struggle that violated the rural sanctuary. The murder probably occurred in the early evening of Tuesday, with an improvised paper shade subduing the flickering light of a little oil lamp that cast the only light shed upon the scene as dirk and hatchet wrought their bloody work.

Frank Carrier of St. Clair reported that he had been approached by a man resembling very much the description of Rev. Carmichael, who had offered him $2 if he would take him across the river to Canada. Carrier did not like to take his boat out into the ice that was running in the river at the time, and declined the stranger's offer.

The only arrest that has been made is that of Frank Smith of Adair, at whose home boarded Gideon Browning the missing carpenter. But there is no charge pending against Smith.
The authorities have taken him into custody merely to hold him as a witness.

Can Not Be Identified.

Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 8.—A thorough examination of the bones and ashes found in the stove of the Rattle Run church resulted in the statement being made by the St. Clair county authorities that the body of the murdered victim had been so badly burned that there was not enough left to determine anything at all about the victim's identity.

Lisbon, Jan. 8.—During a banquet given by officers of the army, at which King Manuel was present, a esty that a plot to dethrone him was in course of preparation. The officer declared further that the king was surrounded by spies and traitors.

OFFICEHOLDERS MUST QUIT COMMITTEE

Democratic Party Law Does Not Apply to Members Who Were Such
When Rule Was Adopted.

MT. STERLING, Ky., Jan. 8.—At the last meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee of Kentucky, Section 3 of the new party law was referred to Messrs. J. A.
Sullivan, of Richmond; J. A. Donaldson, of Carrollton, and W. A.
Berry, of Paducah, for an opinion construing the same. This section prescribes the qualifications of members of the State Committee and points out certain disqualifications.

Since that time a controversy arose in Breckinridge county, as to the meaning of Section 25, and Hon.
Henry R. Frewitt, State chairman, to whom it was certified, referred the same to the sub-committee above named, for an opinion construing.

This section prescribes the qualifications of members of local committees and points out certain disqualifications.

The Breckinridge county controversy arose over the election of Hon. T. J. Moore, as chairman of the County Committee of that county. Mr. Moore is also Circuit County Clerk at Hardinsburg and member of the State Central Committee from the Fourth Congressional District.

Judge Henry DeHaven Moorman
questioned the eligibility of Moore and Chairman Frewitt is in receipt of an exhaustive opinion fully construing the sections above named, from the said sub-committee. The opinion is a unanimous one and will in all probability be adopted by the State Central Committee at its next meeting.

The sub-committee rules that office holders or candidates for office who became such after June 11, 1908, when the party law was adopted at the Lexington convention, is ineligible to hold the office of a party committeeman, but that this provision does not apply to Democrats who were already in office or already candidates at the time or prior to the date of the adoption of the law.

The sub-committee goes still further and holds that the very action of accepting an office, appointive or elective, or of becoming a candidate for one, creates a vacancy on the part of any member of any Democratic committee in the State and that this inhibition extends to the chairman of the party committee, whether he is a member of the committee or not, the party law permitting the election of a person not a member of a committee as its chairman.

There was a large crowd out to the "Moonlight Skate" last night. You can always find something interesting at the Auditorium.

Literary and Social Club.
One of the most interesting programs of the Literary and Social Club of this season was the one with Miss Sara Goodloe Benton on Thursday. On this particular occasion they made a study of Longfellow. Miss Lucy Stewart read an interesting poem. Miss Owen Porter read a very original and an unusually bright paper on the "Life of Longfellow." Miss Florrie Smith, showed much training in reciting a poem, while Miss Winnie Garrett in her sweet manner rendered some beautiful solos.

After this attractive program was finished an elegant lunch was served.

Miss Benton's guests were Mrs. William P. French, Misses Anna Mae Hisle, Margaret Sphar, Florrie Smith, Richie Lane, Ella and Lucy Stewart, Katherine Nelson, Nancy Hodgkin, Jeannette Tracy, Margaret McKinley, Clay Croxton and Emma Lee Taylor.

Euchre Club.
The hospitable doors of Winchester were again thrown open on Thursday afternoon and evening, when Mrs. John Clelland entertained the Euchre Club, and Forty-two Club in her enviable and inimitable way, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Frank Pendleton. The house was beautifully decorated in yellow chrysanthemums and potted plants in every place to please the most artistic person. The lights were covered with the yellow shades, which threw a mellow light over all and added beauty to the occasion.

Mrs. Clelland gowning in a lavender crepe de chime, with the embroidered lavender chiffon trimmings, looked exceedingly handsome and was assisted in entertaining by Miss Mary Crutcher, gowning in green broadcloth. Mrs. John Poynter and Misses Frances Pendleton and Julia Gaitskill, assisted in serving. Euchre was played to close the afternoon and the luncheon was served in delicious courses at the small tables, attractive in their appointments. The tallies were quite unique, for they were in the shape of of clubs, diamonds, spades and hearts in white, edged with gold and the monogram of the hostess in gold on them.

Those present were Mrs. Susan G. Anderson, Mrs. Lucien Beckner, Mrs. J. T. Becker, Miss Cornell, Misses Mary and Allen Crutcher, Mrs. J. Ogden Crutcher, Mrs. Ed. For the men was the white and gold tally in the shape of 4 and the 2 for the ladies. The charming hostess was assisted in entertaining this time by Misses Mary Crutcher and Ella Pendleton, Mrs. Eliza Haggard and in serving Misses Frances Pendleton and Julia Gaitskill. RAILROADERS FOR HERRICK

Grand Chief Stone Urges Former Governor For Cabinet Job.

Augusta, Ga., Jan. 8.—Senator Knox, who is to be secretary of state in the Taft cabinet, today continued his conference with the president-elect on the subject of cabinet appointments.

Mr. Taft has heretofore announced that the judgment of Senator Knox is to have great weight with him in selecting the men who are to be in his cabinet. With this in mind it may be stated that the preliminary and formative periods of this important work have emerged into that of making definite decision and of offers and acceptances of places.

Mr. Taft would not discuss for publication or otherwise what he said was the long and most satisfactory talk he had with his premier.

Owing to the fact that the negroes of Atlanta are engaged in a wrangle over the place where Mr. Taft should make his address to the colored people on the occasion of his visit to that city, Mr. Taft wired a cancellation of the promised speech.

That the organizations of railroad employees favored the selection of Myron T. Herrick of Ohio for a cabinet place was indicated to Mr. Taft by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

FIERY SENATOR WAS FOLLOWED

Tillman Suspected of Being in a Land Grab.

PRESIDENT MAKES REPORT

Contents of Reply to Hale's Inquiry Not Made Public, but Senators Favored with Advance Information Say Speech of South Carolinian a Year Ago Aroused Enemies, Who Sent Alleged Incriminating Letters to Roosevelt and Espionage Began.

Washington, Jan. 8.—By direction of President Roosevelt secret service men shadowed Senator Tillman of South Carolina on the theory that he possibly was interested in an Oregon "land grab," and the result of that investigation is now before the senate.

The information was contained in a communication from President Roosevelt, sent in response to request made by Senator Hale to the heads of the executive departments for a statement of the activities of secret service operatives. Exhaustive replies were made by the various departments and all of these were forwarded to Senator Hale by the president. They have not been made public, and Senator Hale announced that they would not be given out until after they had been considered by a subcommittee of the committee on appropriations.

Through the fact that several senators had advance information of the character of the report it was learned that the investigation of Senator Tillman followed an attack which he made in the senate nearly a year ago upon an Oregon land company which had used his name as one of the persons interested in the concern. Previous to that attack Senator Tillman had introduced a resolution directing the attorney general to prosecute suits against an Oregon railroad corporation which had received land grants in the sixties for a line from a California point to Portland, Ore. Mr. Tillman had said that the use of his name was without authority, and as a result it is declared that several persons interested in land grants became angered.

Some of the interested parties are reported to have sent to President Roosevelt copies of letters alleged to have been written by Senator Tillman indicating that he had an interest in one of the land companies that would be benefitted through the land companies obtaining possession of the grants in question.

IN THE SENATE

Culberson Wants Committee to Report on President's Acts.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Characterizing the action of the president in directing the attorney general not to proceed against the United States Steel corporation for its absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company as "another arbitrary and lawless act of the chief magistrate," Senator Culberson of Texas introduced a resolution in the senate instructing the committee on judiciary to report at as early a day as practicable whether in the opinion of that committee the president was authorized to permit such absorption.

An amendment was reported to the senate from the committee on finance providing for an increase of the salary of the president to $100,000 and of the salary of the vice president and the speaker of the house of representatives to $20,000 each.

GEORGETOWN DEPOT TO BE MODERN BUILDING

Railroad Commission Turns Down Plans as Offered to the Citizens.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Jan. 8.—The full Railroad Commission, composed of Chairman A. T. Siler, McD. Ferguson and L. P. Tarleton, visited Georgetown yesterday, arriving on a special train.

The members were entertained by Mayor Richard Fennell and the Commercial Club Committee having the new depot proposition in charge. Messrs. Frank Thomasson, Ed. Whitton and Captain J. R. Jackson, civil engineer in charge of the Queen & Crescent railroad, stationed at Lexington, accompanied the commission.

The site on which the old depot stood was gone over as well as the surroundings and the general situation in Georgetown was looked into.

After full investigation the commission decided that the plans heretofore submitted by the railroads are not in keeping with what the town requires and deserves, and will not be approved by the commission. The grounds also are considered inadequate.

The commission decided to arrange a conference between the railroad officials and the citizens of Georgetown with a view to arranging for a Union Station.

Postmaster Hall is highly pleased at the showing made by his office.

Many Billiard Tourneys Scheduled to Take Place This Year.

SUTTON TO PLAY SLOSSON.

They Will Meet in New York For 18.1 Balk Line Title Jan. 26—World's Championship Tournament to Start March 22—Hoppe Posts Forfeit.

Billiard events arranged and projected promise activity and interest during the first three months of 1909. George Sutton and George Slosson are to play for the 18.1 balk line championship in New York Jan. 26. Announcement has been made that a tournament to revive the 18.2 championship will be held in New York March 22, and the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players will meet the latter part of February or the early part of March either in New York or Chicago.

The Sutton-Slosson match, besides being for the championship, will involve a side bet of $1,000.

In the 18.2 tournament to begin at Madison Square Garden concert hall March 22 the contestants will be limited to six, each of whom must pay an entrance fee of $100. Prize money amounting to $3,000 is offered, and to this sum will be added the entrance money and net gate receipts, all of which will be divided among the players who finish first, second, third and fourth, the proportions being 50, 25, 15 and 10 per cent.

Tournament games will be of 40 points, and ties must be played off. The winner of first prize will be awarded a trophy emblematic of the championship of the world, which he will be required to defend according to the rules heretofore governing such title. Before the tournament opens the players about to engage in it will be asked to determine whether or not championship matches shall be of one, two or more nights' duration.

Assured entrants are George Sutton, George F. Slosson and Calvin Demarest. Among other probable competitors are Ora Morningstar, Harry Cline and A. G. Cutler.

Willie Hoppe, the "boy wonder," having delivered his opinions on billiard, in general, now comes out with a challenge to play George Sutton a match game. Hoppe announced recently that he had deposited $1,000 with John Kelly as a forfeit or side bet for the match with Sutton.

Hoppe specifies that he will play Sutton a 1,500 point match at 18 inch balk line, one shot in, or a 3,000 point match at 18 inch balk line, two shots in.

What promises to be one of the best professional championship billiard tournaments ever held in this country is that slated for Chicago during the latter part of February or early March. Practically all the star players in the world of the cue and ivory ball have announced their intention of entering the competition for the world's title at 18 inch balk line, two shots in. Of all the probable entries there is none that has attracted more attention than that of Calvin Demarest, the former amateur champion, who created quite a sensation last winter by establishing a new amateur record for a high run. Willie Hoppe also has stated that he will be there to try to regain his title, while Slosson, Sutton, Cutler and Morningstar will probably be among those present at the green cloth table. At the present time it appears that Schaefer will be the only luminary of the cue who will not shine at the tournament.

Schaefer is afraid that his health will not permit him to show in Chicago until the spring of the year. The rest of the world would be contestants are busily engaged in practice, and all eyes are watching the play of Demarest. His work is improving rapidly, and those who know the game like to book predict that before many more championship contests have been played the former amateur will hold the world's professional title. When he enters the play in February or March he will lack one important requisite of a champion—experience in tight places. However, he has been wonderfully steady in all of his practice matches to date.

NATIONS INVITED TO SHOOT.

Tournament Next Fall Will Decide Who Is World's Best Marksman.

Next September will witness the greatest gathering of international riflemen ever seen in this country. The state department has been intrusted with formal invitations from the National Rifle association, of which General James A. Drain is president, to be forwarded to the ambassadors and ministers from nineteen countries interested in rifle shooting, formally inviting those countries to be represented by rifle teams at the coming international tournament. More elaborate plans are being made for this series of matches than ever before. In addition to the Palma match for the military long range championship of the world, which was won in 1907 by the American team at Ottawa, there will be an individual competition at 1,000 yards, a team match at 300 meters, an individual competition at 300 meters and a revolver team competition at 50 yards.

The individual match at 1,000 yards will attract great attention, as America, by reason of its records and its victories in the Olympic games and elsewhere, claims the distinction of having the finest long range marksmen in the world.

The nineteen countries and colonies invited are England, Canada, Australia, France, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Italy, Germany, Austria, Greece, Mexico, Argentine Republic, Brazil, Spain, Belgium and Japan.

GOLF BREAK MAY COME.

Westerners Likely to Form New Association at Meeting on Jan. 16.

Charles F. Thompson of the Homewood Country club is so far the only avowed candidate for president of the Western Golf association, the annual meeting of which will be held in Chicago Jan. 16. Mr. Thompson said recently that the forthcoming meeting would probably develop a movement to secede from the United States Golf association and form a new organization to be called the Golf Association of America. Mr. Thompson said he favored this plan. Albert R. Gates, who is now president of the organization said:

"While there has been much talk against the alleged domination of the national body by a coterie of easterners, there is a large body of conservatives, including nearly all of the old golfers, who will oppose a break. The attempt undoubtedly will be made, but its success cannot be predicted."

The Western Golf association includes the territory west of Pittsburgh all the way to Hawaii.

Irving Brokaw, one of the greater fancy skaters in America, has been showing the French steel blade artist how good an American must be. The former idol of the St. Nicholas rink in New York has been cutting a little ice at the Palais de Glace, Paris.

After an exhibition given recently before the club Des Patineurs, where French society was well represented, Mr. Brokaw was presented with a medal as a token of appreciation.

The meet for the fancy ice skating title of Europe is to take place the last ter part of January in Budapest, Hungary, and the world championship is Stockholm, Sweden, about the middle of February.

He is now getting himself into shape for the coming meets at St. Moritz, Switzerland. Mr. Brokaw is the first American to adopt the continental style of skating. He recently received high praise in Berlin beside such men as Sachow, the world's champion, and Prandin, the Russian champion.

Seattle Wants Eastern Crews.

A movement is under way to get the varsity crews of Yale, Harvard and Cornell to row in a match race at Seattle, Wash., during the Alaskan-Yukon-Pacific exposition there this spring. These three universities have been invited to send their varsity eights to the northwest to play a prominent part in the regatta which it has been decided to hold in connection with the fair.

REPORT OF DIRECTOR OF THE CENSUS

To The Secretary of Commerce and Labor—Describes Next Census.

The Director of the Census has just issued his annual report to the Secretary of Commerce and Labor. After reviewing the work of the past year and describing the current work of the Bureau, the Director proceeds to the immensely important subject of the next census of the United States, the census of 1910.

Estimated Cost of Thirteenth Census. In regard to its cost he says, "I estimate that the cost of the Thirteenth Census, including the cost of conducting the four annual investigations and the two biennial reports that the Census Office is required to make simultaneously with the taking of that census, will be $14,117,000. The lump sum appropriation act for the next fiscal year should be not less than $14,000,000."

Excluding the cost of the four annual investigations and the two biennial reports, the probable cost of the census proper is estimated at $12,939,000. The cost of the last census, that of 1900, was $12,520,000. In other words the Director is planning to take the census of 1910 at an increase in cost of only $410,000 over the census of 1900, and this in spite of the enormous growth in the population during the past decade, a growth largely contributed by foreign born people who do not speak English, a class which it is very expensive and very difficult to enumerate.

If the work can be accomplished for this sum, it will be the first time in the history of the nation that a census has been taken and compiled at practically the same cost as the prior enumeration. Formerly the increase in the cost of the census from decade to decade has been about 50 per cent, and on this basis the cost of the Thirteenth Census proper, exclusive of the four annual and the two biennial reports, would be $18,750,000, nearly $6,000,000 more than the Director estimates the actual cost will be.

Among the reasons which the Director assigns for his belief that this enormous saving can be made he places first the existence of the permanent Census Office. He says, "The fact that the Office is now organized at the highest point of efficiency, that no time will be lost in getting ready, in testing the aptitude of green clerks, and in developing new systems, means fully a million dollars' saving in the organization of the Thirteenth Census."

Another important means of bringing about this saving is the fact that the Bureau will build and own the necessary tabulating apparatus instead of renting it as heretofore. On July 1, 1905, the apparatus which had been used in tabulating the census of 1900 and which was owned and operated by a private company was withdrawn from the Bureau of the Census because the company and the Director could not agree on the rental to be paid for the use of these mechanisms. The withdrawal of the machines compelled the Director to ask Congress for an appropriation for experiment work in developing new mechanisms to be owned, controlled, and operated by the Government. The results of this experimental work have exceeded all expectations. The new mechanisms invented are novel in plan and design, are of greater speed and efficiency than those they supersede, and can be built and operated at a saving in money as compared with previous expenditures for this purpose.

Several of the new tabulating machines were tried out in the tabulation of the Cuban census, a work completed by the Bureau of the Census for the Cuban Government during the past year. In connection with the tabulating of this census the experiment was tried of paying the operators of tabulating machinery by piecework. The results were so satisfactory that a provision has been introduced into the new census bill whereby all operators of tabulating machinery at future censuses can be paid by piecework. This too will result in a great saving to the Government.

The savings due to the different causes will be almost equal to the total amount expended for the maintenance of the entire Census Bureau between the two censuses. To realize the full significance of this statement account must be taken of the fact that during the interval between the censuses the Office has completed various branches of statistical work never before undertaken, which have involved an expenditure of at least $3,200,000.

Two other questions are touched upon in the Director's report, the decision in regard to which will seriously affect the cost of the work.

Appointments.

The first concerns the methods of making temporary clerical appointments during the decennial census period. The census bill now before Congress provides for a noncompetitive examination, to be conducted by the Civil Service Commission. A "noncompetitive" examination means that every one of the many thousands who may pass the examination will have an equal right to appointment, and that personal and political pressure must in the end, as always before, become the determining factor with reference to the great body of these temporary employments. In regard to this the Director says: "I can not too earnestly urge that the Director of the Census be relieved from this unfortunate situation. If these clerks can be appointed as needed in the order certified from that examination (the order of rank in passing), a better service will be secured than will otherwise be possible, the efficiency of the force will be greatly increased, and the cost of the census correspondingly reduced."

It may be noted, however, that the Director does not recommend an examination for the position of enumerator, because the service of enumerators is required for a brief time only, and, moreover, as 65,000 are necessary it would be practically impossible to secure them by examination. For enumerators, he recommends the appointment of students in educational institutions, either men or women.

Office Accommodations.

The other important question is that of proper accommodations for the Thirteenth Census. The present Census building, which is rented by the Government, is entirely too small. Other space must be secured. If the Government hires rooms in different sections of the city, wherever they are available, the work will be so scattered that the cost of administering it will be enormously increased. The Director outlines a plan whereby at a comparatively small cost the Government can purchase the present building and the adjoining land and erect on the new land an additional building. The cost of this plan would be almost entirely offset by the saving which would result from having the Office force in one place where it could be efficiently administered. It should be noted, moreover, that the land which the Director recommends for purchase lies within that territory which the Park Commission has marked for ultimate ownership by the Government. It can now be secured at an unusually low price.

WOODCRAFT.

Methods of Canadian Indians in Traveling Forests.

A Canadian Indian, states a contemporary, never loses his way in the woods, being always able to find his road over a route once followed by him and also to penetrate forests that he has never seen if only another Indian shows him the general course in a rough draft on a piece of bark.

Indians display marked ability in communicating with one another in the woods. They telegraph by means of smoke, and it is astonishing how far off they can scent it—always a long time before they can see it or could hear a sound from its vicinity. If they expect to be followed by another party they stick a piece of wood in the ground on a postage, slanting it in the direction in which they are traveling. Those who find it will know by the degree of inclination whether they who planted it are traveling hurriedly or not.

If it be in summer, a small bough or piece of a shrub is fastened to the stake, and by the extent to which it has become withered those who find it will know when it was placed there. If a hunter, as very often happens, has to make a detour or to remain behind his squaw in search of game, she will occasionally indicate the route she has taken by sticks placed in the ground, to which she has attached a small portion of her skirt.

THE GERMAN CENSOR.

He Was a Terror to the Dramatist a Hundred Years Ago.

The way the censor worried the German dramatists of a century or so ago is strikingly illustrated by a book on the censorship in Germany published by Dr. Robert Heindl at Munich. The German theater used to be terribly moral. In 1795 the Viennese censor laid it down that an engaged couple ought not to quit the stage separately, but that they should be accompanied by an official who should be understood to be about to make immediate arrangements for their marriage. Even in 1848 misalliances were prohibited on the Viennese stage, for, as the censor sagely observed, these misfortunes will occur in real life, but they should not be allowed in the theater.

At Stuttgart the "Iphigenia in Tauris" of Goethe was nearly prohibited because the Greek dress allowed the actors' bare legs to be seen. There was a long dispute over this point, but at last the censor permitted the play on condition that the actors wore yellow tights.

Few would have imagined that the Viennese censor was so careful of the morals of the population a hundred years ago, but Dr. Heindl shows that not merely political allusions were censored, but that the strictest decorum of word and of thought was insisted upon.

Orange Snow.—Here is a festive little pudding for some stray luncheon which threatens to go without a dessert. It's a dainty concoction of oranges and custard and beaten whites of eggs. To make it squeeze two oranges and grate the rind of one. Add a small cupful of sugar, a pint of water and a tablespoonful of gelatin dissolved in a little cold water. Strain and add the beaten whites of three eggs. Pour into a mold and stir occasionally till it is set. Heat a cupful of milk and add the beaten yolks of the eggs and the juice of an orange, with a half cupful of sugar. Cook till smooth. Cool and place around the pudding after it is turned out on a flat dish.

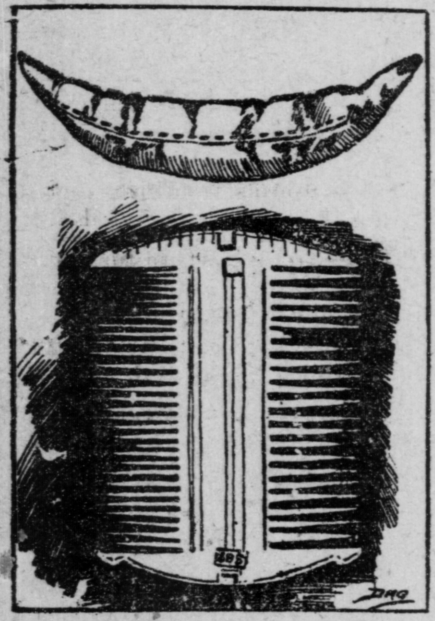

Croutons With Baked Apples.—Cut stale bread in half inch slices and cut a circular piece from each slice. Brush these all over with melted butter and brown in the oven. Core and pare as many medium sized apples as you have croutons. Mix a cupful of sugar and a cupful of boiling water and boil for six minutes. Then add the apples, cover closely and cook until tender. Then place in a baking dish with a little butter and sugar on each, the juice of a lemon and the sirup. Cover and bake for thirty minutes, then remove and place an apple on each crouton. Pour over them the sirup and serve hot.

New Pudding.—Cook one pint of cranberries and run them through a sieve to remove skins and seeds. Add the same bulk of sugar and enough gelatin to make a thick pudding, which can be cut into small squares. Place this in a large dish and dot with spoonfuls of apple jelly and shredded pineapple. Cover with whipped cream. It is not only an attractive dish, but it is very delicious.

EGYPTIAN RATS.

Mother of Rameses the Great Invented Hair Dyes.

We know that the ancient Egyptians painted and powdered themselves and curled their crimped hair and that the mother of Rameses the Great was clever enough to be the lady who invented hair dyes. Perhaps also she was the first to wear a pompadour, for at Akhimm, upper Egypt, has been found a hair rat, politely called "coiffeur support," by the Metropolitan museum, in New York city, which is several thousand years old. It is of a leathery material and more like the pads which are now in use, except that it is beautifully ornamented in a nice wheel design, which shows that the early Egyptians were a far more beauty loving nation than we are, since the rat which was to support the hair was as handsomely decorated as if it had been worn outside.

There is also an ancient comb from Egypt, worn by some beautiful woman at the time of the Ptolemies. It is of bone and carefully carved and of a design which is still in use at the present day.

The ladies of Cleopatra's time evidently brushed their hair down from the crown over the face, adjusting the hair support as does the girl of today. Probably also they rattled their hair, combed it back and fastened it securely with the double tooth comb, or the comb may have been used to keep in place some of the numerous puffs which they wore.

A Laundry Book.

The clever girl who makes laundry books for presents selects a neat rice paper for the leaves and cuts the double cover from red paper of a heavy variety, then ties the leaves together with red baby ribbon. Between the leaves of white paper are blue carbon paper slips, so that a duplicate copy is made when one marks off her laundry. This makes a handy booklet and one that would be appreciated by any woman who must send a list of laundry to her laundress and keep one herself.

A Unique Salad Bowl.

The shell of the Edam cheese makes a unique bowl for a salad made of celery, grape fruit and white grapes. A mayonnaise dressing is better with this than the French dressing. The cheese shell will be found to impart a delicious flavor to the salad itself.

GOVERNMENT STUDIES OF NAVAL STORES INDUSTRY

Special Appropriation Has Been Made By Government To Carry On the Work.

The United States government has for the past five months been making investigations of the timber supply as it is related to the naval stores industry of the Southern States. A special appropriation was made by the last Congress to carry on this work. For some time those interested in the turpentine industry have felt the need of accurate data regarding the supply of timber still available for the production of turpentine. The degree of injury sustained by the longleaf pine during the process of bleeding for resin has always been a subject of contention between the lumbermen, on the one hand, and the turpentine operators on the other, and a special effort was made to ascertain reliable facts bearing upon this phase of the investigation. Statistics of production are also in process of compilation.

Studying Present Method.

The present methods of obtaining rosin from the tree and especially the extent of use and the practicability of the now cup system of collecting gum have come under careful study. In order that the best possible results might be obtained all parts of the naval stores producing region were visited; the best informed operators were interviewed and observations were made in regions of varying conditions. The data collected in the turpentine investigation are now being brought together, in a report which will later be published. Some of the points brought out are as follows:

The New Cup System.

The new cup system of gathering the gum, whereby the injurious hole or "box" cut in the tree to catch the gum has been replaced by a cup hung on the tree, have generally proved both practical and profitable, and are everywhere gaining in favor.

As compared with the old and exceedingly injurious "box" system these new methods unquestionably lessen the injury done to the timber and lengthen the average life of the tree after bleeding. This increase in efficiency is due to the fact that the cup systems render the tree less susceptible to damage by subsequent fires.

Field Going Westward.

The United States Forest Service men who made the investigation found the field of the turpentine operator is moving westward. As the available timber in the older sections of the eastern States becomes exhausted the operator moves farther west in search of new fields.

Finally, the available supply of turpentine timber in the United States is likely to be exhausted within the next fifteen years to the extent that the turpentine industry as related to the production from living trees will be seriously curtailed, while a large falling off of production will probably occur within ten years. This condition will be a surprise to many who have held that large areas of fine pine timber in the States of Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas will come under production and thus tend to offset the falling off in the East. It has been found, however, that the conditions differ in these States as the timberlands are held in bodies of considerable extent by large companies who will not allow their timber to be bled. Their experience in turpentine leads them to the view that the damage done to the timber more than offsets the additional revenue and has caused them to become antagonistic to any advance looking toward the tapping of their timber. For this reason the naval stores industry will probably never become the factor in these States that it has on the Atlantic Coast.

Then He Subsidized.

"I have made it a rule through life," he said at the table the other day to a man at his left, "never to meddle with another man's business."

"That's right—perfectly right," was the reply.

"But I see you have a new confidential clerk."

"Yes, sir, yes."

"He's a hard looking case. I have seen him intoxicated a dozen times, and I wouldn't trust him out of my sight with a sixpence. Took him out of charity, eh?"

"Well, not altogether, you know. He happens to be my eldest son."—London Mail.

A Look Ahead.

Simon had just paid a long delayed bill at the grocer's, partly in response to many urgings and partly because he happened to have the requisite ready money. The grocer, an old friend in spite of his persistence in dunning, thanked him heartily.

"Good for you, Simon," he said graciously. "You deserve credit for paying up this way."

"I know it," replied Simon, "and I wish you'd give it to me sooner another time."—Youth's Companion.

THE VERY BEST.

Have any of our readers seen a recent copy of the Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer? If not, it will pay to send for a copy, if for no other purpose than to note its present great worth as an educator in all things that tend to make life prosperous, and home, the happiest place on earth.

The editor by asking its readers to criticize and suggest improvements; and following advice thus obtained is enabled to produce a paper that exactly fits needs of a family and a material aid to father, mother and children in reaching that higher level in social life, where content and comfort reign supreme.

Father obtains ample information that guides in the where, when and how to regulate and increase the income from his efforts. The mother in management of household affairs, practical economy, government of children, and other duties that makes her toil a labor of love. Children's minds and hearts are freed from thoughts of questionable amusements and frivolities of life, and encouraged to emulate all that is helpful in planning for a useful future in life.

The Grand Idea being that; "As are our Homes, so will be the Community, State and Nation."

A most desirable help, is a non-sectarian sermon each week, as preached by that Biblical Student Pastor Chas. T. Russell; a forcible reminder of the spiritual and temporal rewards gained by righteous living as preferable to a Godless life that brings nought but misery to the home.

Other departments and features are above the ordinary, the unanimous verdict of its readers being: "The cleanest and best family Weekly known to them."

BLAMES WHISKY

Attorney For Beach Hargis Discusses Kentucky Feuds.

Columbus, O., Jan. 8.—"Too much bad whisky," said Attorney William A. Young of Morehead, Ky., who is now in Columbus, "is the cause of the outbreaks in the Hargis case in Kentucky."

Mr. Young, who is here representing Samuel L. Bradley, a Kentucky lumber dealer, in a suit in the local common pleas court against the Bergen Lumber company, was the attorney for Beach Hargis, who killed his father, Judge James Hargis.

The escapade of young Hargis a few nights ago, in which he was arrested for shooting up a town, Attorney Young says, was no doubt due to too much whisky. Young Hargis will be tried again in July for the murder of his father, and Mr. Young doesn't think that his latest escapade will help his case.

Cutting Not Injured.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Ambassador Griscom telegraphed the state department that the reports of injury to Vice Consul Cutting of Milan, who has gone to the scene of the earthquake disaster, are incorrect. He is perfectly well and with Winthrop Chanler has gone to Taormina to help the wounded there.

COLLEGE RECEPTION.

An informal reception was given last night to the men of the college football team by Miss Emma Lee Taylor, acting for Mrs. Taylor in her absence. The men of the first team squads were present and spent an unusually pleasant evening. Music and story telling took up the early part of the evening after which a lunch was served. Professor Moore acted in the capacity of Master of Ceremony and called for a number of speeches from the present gladiators. Joe Godby, captain of the team of 1908, responded in a well-timed talk on the value of the work of the past season. Mr. H. M. Foskett roused to a degree of enthusiasm in talking of the prospects of the coming year. Captain Boles of the team of 1909, made a few remarks about football in general. "Daddy's" work on the field talks so loudly that he needs to say very little. Professor Moore handed out a choice assortment of roasts, which were, as usual, with whatever he does, cordially received. Assisting Miss Emma Lee Taylor in receiving the Gridiron heroes was Miss Dudley. The men are very appreciative of this form of entertainment as it does more to generate a healthy school spirit than anything else can, and that is something that Kentucky Wesleyan can stand more of.
